

1106 Placement of Priests

The Division of Clergy Personnel

PART ELEVEN HUNDRED SIX PLACEMENT OF PRIESTS

1106.1 General Principles

- Direct Action - The Archbishop may take direct action in making an assignment outside the usual process. In some instances, the Board may recommend such action.
- The Priestly Life and Ministry Board recommends placements for priests in pastorate and special ministry assignments. These recommendations will be made with every effort to coordinate the abilities, preferences of the individual priest with the specific needs of a particular assignment and the needs of the Archdiocese.
- Office of Clergy Personnel - It is the responsibility of the Office of Clergy Personnel to create and keep current a system of detailed and accurate information on priests and assignments. It is expected that each priest will cooperate with the Office by providing all information necessary for assignment purposes.
- Parish Consultation Process - The parish staff and the members of an individual pastorate may be asked to cooperate in a Parish Consultation Process when a vacant pastorate occurs as necessary.

1106.2 Goals of the Placement Process

- Goals - To meet the pastoral needs of the faithful of the Archdiocese by assigning the most qualified priest available to every pastoral position taking into account the personal, professional, and growth needs of all Archdiocesan priests while taking into account the needs of the Archdiocese. Openness to dialogue is essential to this process.

1106.2.1 The Placement Process

The essential elements of discernment in the placement process for a priestly assignment include:

- Priestly Life and Ministry Board - A recommendation for change of assignment may originate with the Priestly Life and Ministry Board. A priest may be asked to consider reassignment because his qualifications correspond to a particular need or because the Board judges that a different assignment may be instrumental in increasing his competence and experience.
- Change of Assignment or Interest in Specific Assignment - Any priest who wishes to be considered for such a change in their assignment should contact the Director of the Office of Clergy Personnel by email or telephone to discuss his interest in a specific position or in a possible future assignment.

- Individual Priest - A priest himself may take the initiative by asking for a change of assignment. A priest should discuss his thoughts for a current or future assignment with the Director of the Office of Clergy Personnel. A priest may also ask for a personal interview with the Board to discuss his request.
  - Consultation - The Office of Clergy Personnel consults with the Vicar Bishops, the Vicar General, and other appropriate entities in fashioning its recommendation for the appointment of a priest to a particular parish or office.
  - Initial Recommendations - Initial recommendations for specific positions are made by the Placement Committee of the Priestly Life and Ministry Board:
    - Who review the overall plans for leadership in open parishes and
    - Is responsible for considering the competence and availability of a priest when making recommendations to the Board for priests' assignments.
  - Initial Placement Committee Process - The Placement Committee receives preliminary background information from the Office staff and the Board, and then:

    - Votes to approve, change, or reject those recommendations made by the Placement Committee;
    - Role of the Archbishop - The Director of Clergy Personnel presents all the Board's recommendations to the Archbishop.
    - The Archbishop may exercise the right to make changes in the recommendations.
    - The Archbishop will review all proposed appointments before they are proposed to the individual priest to determine whether he is in

- agreement to the appointment.
  - Approach to Individual Priests - Individual priests are approached by the Director of the Office of Clergy Personnel regarding their openness to considering a particular assignment.

1106.4 Pastors

1106.4.1 General Considerations

- Pastors and Pastorates - Over the years, the experience of the Priestly Life and Ministry Board has revealed that parishes and pastorates differ widely both in their characteristics and in the responsibilities of their Pastors.
- Uniqueness - Each pastorate has to be considered in relation to the specific demands of the particular pastorate under consideration.
- Associates - The Board has learned that there is no one profile which describes all pastorate positions nor is there only one pattern of experience as an associate which makes a priest proficient to perform equally well in all types of pastorate positions.
- Other Factors - Added to these different factors are the increasing demands on pastors including:
  - A renewed call to evangelization beyond the parish walls,
  - The pastoring of multiple parishes, and
  - The more complex financial and human resource management of parishes and schools.

Objectives

- The Priestly Life and Ministry Board's objective is to match the needs of an individual parish/pastorate along with the competence and potential of an individual priest, to accomplish this the Priestly Life and Ministry Board accumulated a growing body of detailed information about parishes and priests that can be used in serving this objective.
- Methods - Through a variety of methods, including the possible use of annual information forms, personal interviews, and direct contacts with priests the Board has become more familiar with the background, the experiences, and the individual goals of Archdiocesan priests.
- Emphasis - The Board also emphasizes the importance of considering talents as well as length of experience in recommending candidates for appointment to pastorates.
- The goals and methods for choosing a pastor are to conform to section 6.2 of this document.

1106.5.1 Term of Office

- Associate Pastors are generally assigned at the pleasure of the Archbishop (Canons 546-548).

- The counsel of the Priestly Life and Ministry Board may be sought for long term appointments;
